HIDDEN SECRETS UNCOVERED

Yorkshire based public relations and marketing agency, Allott and Associates Ltd, has teamed up with the local production firm, Hare Brain Films, to create a 45-minute pilot documentary. It is the first of what is hoped will be a series of six, called The Secret History of our Towns and Cities.

Filming for the first segment, focusing on Knaresborough, began in June and so far the team have entered hidden sally ports, uncovered underground tunnels, exposed graffiti from the medieval age and undertaken various interviews with local historians. Other planned venues include Bolton, Stamford, Pontefract, Ripon and York.

A number of national broadcasters have expressed an interest in the show and the production team hope it will appear on television next year.

Managing director of Allott and Associates Ltd, Mr Philip Allott, said: "It has been a fascinating project so far. Before we started I had some knowledge of the town's history but since we began researching and filming we've uncovered some exciting secrets that tell an awful lot about how we used to live from the Doomsday era onwards."
